Holden's Attitudes Toward Childhood and Adulthood in Salinger's, The Catcher in the Rye. In the book Holden hears a quote "The mark of the immature man is that he wants to die nobly for a cause, while the mark of a mature man is that he wants to live humbly for one" (Salinger 188) which he embraces as he matures throughout the story.

Seeing as how Holden spends most of the novel in the adult world, Moore backs up Holden's belief that the world of adults is a vile place not fit for the innocent. Another thing that enforces that belief is when Holden is in the hotel and he is watching the people on other floors play these weird sex games like the guy and girl spitting water on each other or the man dressing up in women's clothing.
