The rock cycle is a basic concept in geology that describes the time-consuming transitions through geologic time among the three main rock types: sedimentary, metamorphic, and igneous. As the adjacent diagram illustrates, each of the types of rocks is altered or destroyed when it is forced out of its equilibrium conditions.

Regarding the oldest volcanic record of the KPR, Brandl et al. (2017) reported on the geochemical compositions of glasses (occurring as inclusions in minerals) formed at the KPR from  $\sim 25$  to 40 Ma at U1438. The sedimentary section containing the oldest volcanoclastic material above the igneous basement of U1438 was estimated to be between 40 and 57 Ma based on micropaleontological information ...

The challenges to reconstructing the history of Rodinia include inadequate high-quality geological, geochronological and palaeomagnetic data, multiple possible interpretations for each data set, and uncertainties in fundamental assumptions such as the application of modern-style plate tectonics to late-Precambrian time and that the geomagnetic field was a geocentric axial dipole field (an ...

A group of geologists have drawn my attention to the 2010/2013 Geological Society of London's statement on climate change and asked if I could arrange an on-line discussion about it. The lead author of the statements is Dr Colin Summerhayes who has participated as guest blogger and commenter on Energy Matters before. And so I asked if I could reproduce the statements on these pages and ...

Een bijzonder kenmerk van de Aarde is dat ze een grote natuurlijke satelliet heeft, de Maan. Tijdens de Apollo-vluchten in de 20e eeuw is materiaal van de Maan teruggebracht dat direct bestudeerd kan worden. Door radiometrische datering van dit materiaal is nu bekend dat de Maan  $4527 \pm 10$  Ma oud moet zijn, ongeveer 30 tot 55 Ma jonger dan de rest van het zonnestelsel.
